Biography:

Scott has been building exhibits for museums with H2's Principals for more than 15 years. He is extraordinarily innovative, inventive, and sets the bar for quality control at the highest level.

Scott manages the fabrication shop and takes the design documents produced in the studio and, alongside Ariel, Principal, manages the H2 fabrication team and sub-consultants to deliver the second phase of all of our projects – the "built products."

Scott's project experience is enormous, with notable projects that include The Army Museum at Fort Carson, Museum of Worcester History's Fuller Gallery and American Icon Gallery, The National Grid Visitor Center (New York and Rhode Island), Martha's Vineyard Museum, two projects at The Lakeland History Center (Florida), Angry Orchard's Innovation Center (Sam Adams Brewery), Webb County Museum (Texas), and Battleship Cove in Massachusetts.

What else?

Scott loves to work and works around the clock!
